WHAT

A

BODY!

AND HOW!!!
Sanderson's student body was in the best shape ever. This year's body was well rounded with many extra-curricular activities. The body swung into action, leaving behind lazy summer days, and hustled into the unrelenting arms of another school year.

sensati

SHS dared to go all the way by rip-roaring to an enviable pinnacle of success. Spine tingling competition not only enhanced the spirit of the body, but also toughened its brawny strength.

ional

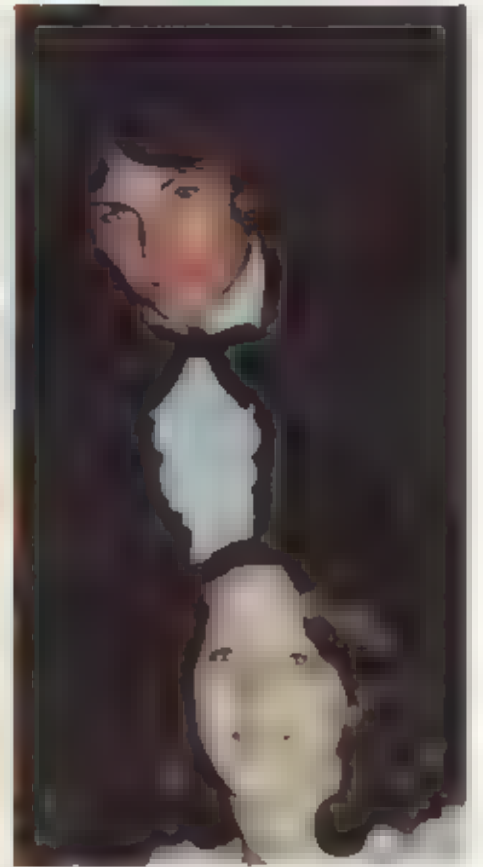

incomp

The body was second to none in its beauty, physique, and insatiable appetites. Physical prowess, speed, and agility were devastating in every challenge. This high spirited body marched with an unrivaled air of superiority.

199

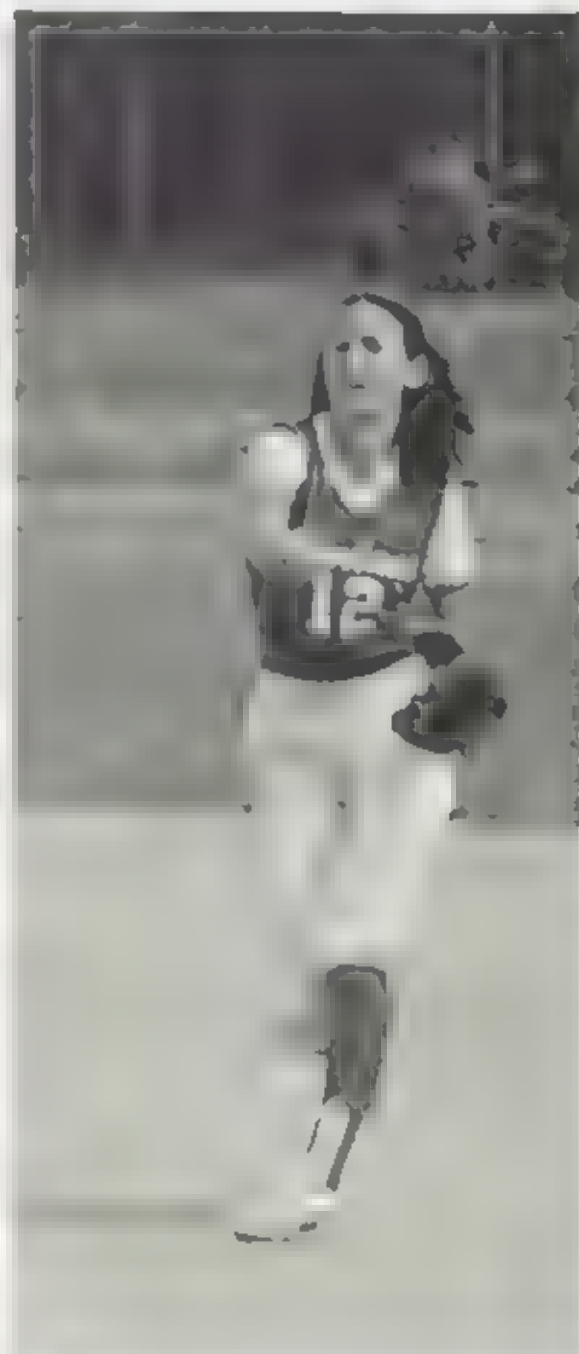

Sanderson's Sports achieved its highest pinnacle ever this year. The Spartans boasted two state and four conference champion teams. Both teams and individuals excelled in a season that brought Sanderson the Capital VIII All Sports Trophy for the fifth time in six years. The Spartans' power and finesse totally dominated the sports scene. '78-'79 was definitely the Year of the Spartan.

SPORTS

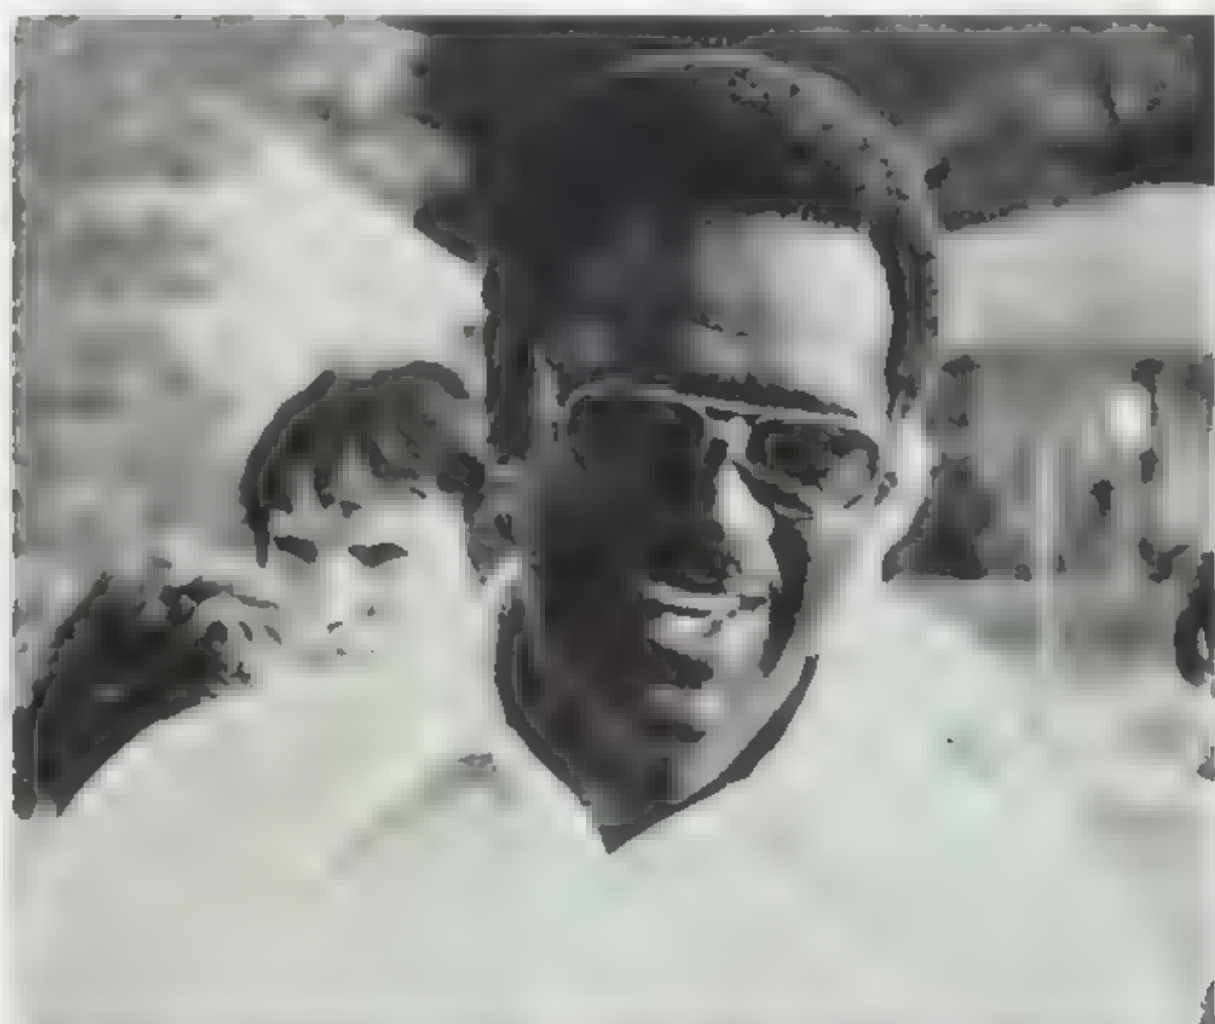

A Look At The Spartan Line-up

The feeling of total exhaustion is one that is well-known to those who run cross country. The body is focused on finishing the race, the mind on driving the body to the utmost limits of its endurance.

What do you mean? Only one more $*@! mile!

On August first, the summer ended for all football players. In the broiling sun, while everyone else was catching rays and Z's, the football players were catching yells from Coach Lehning and Coach Ketcham.

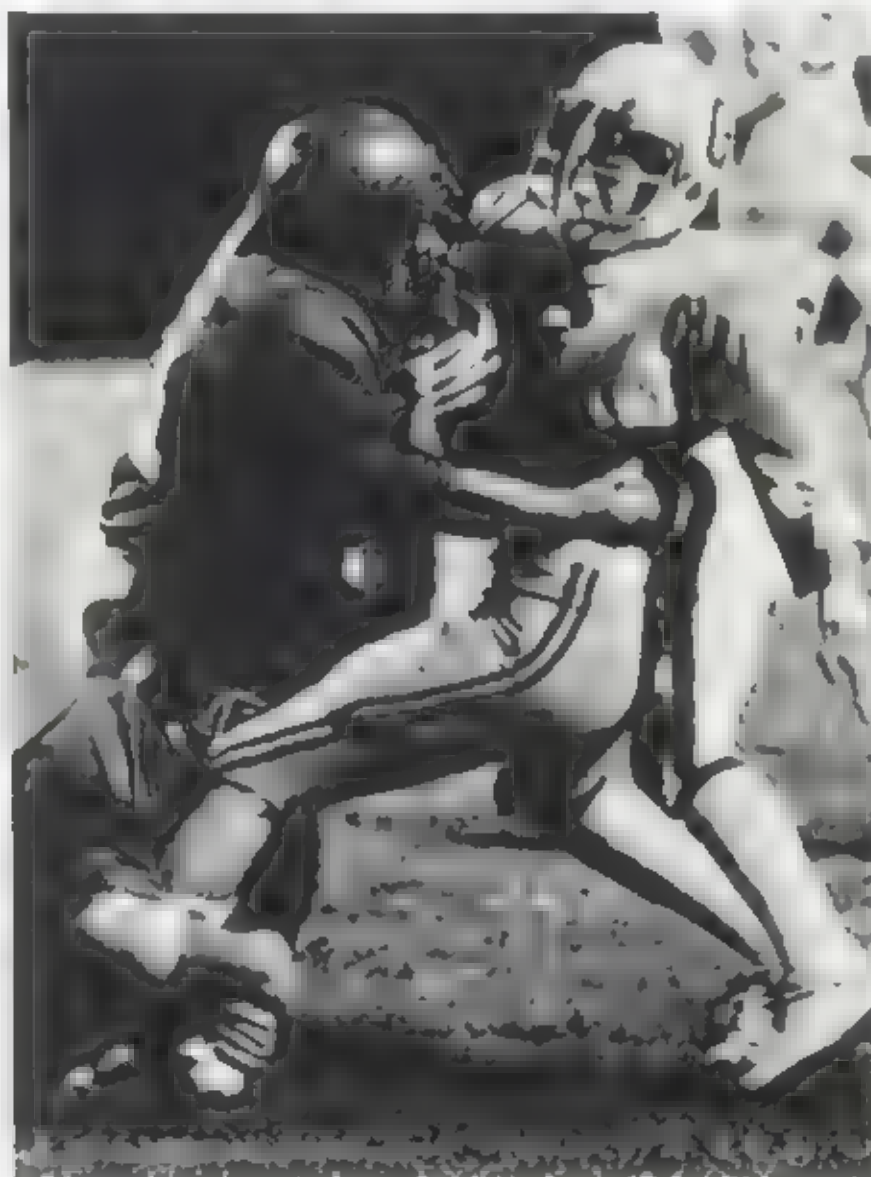

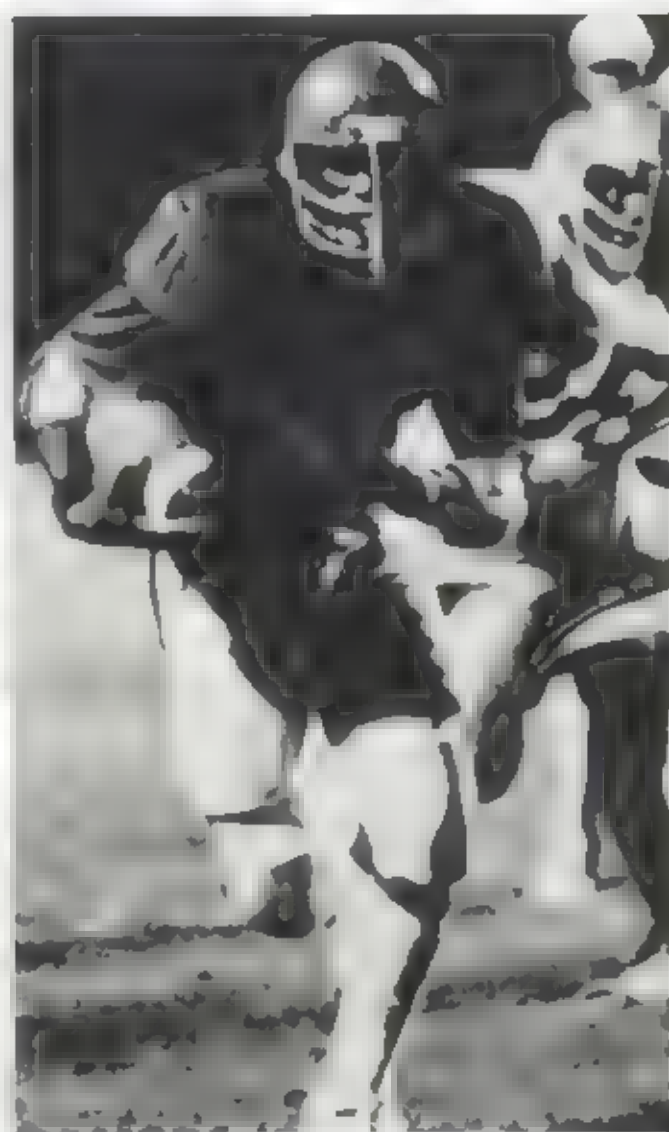

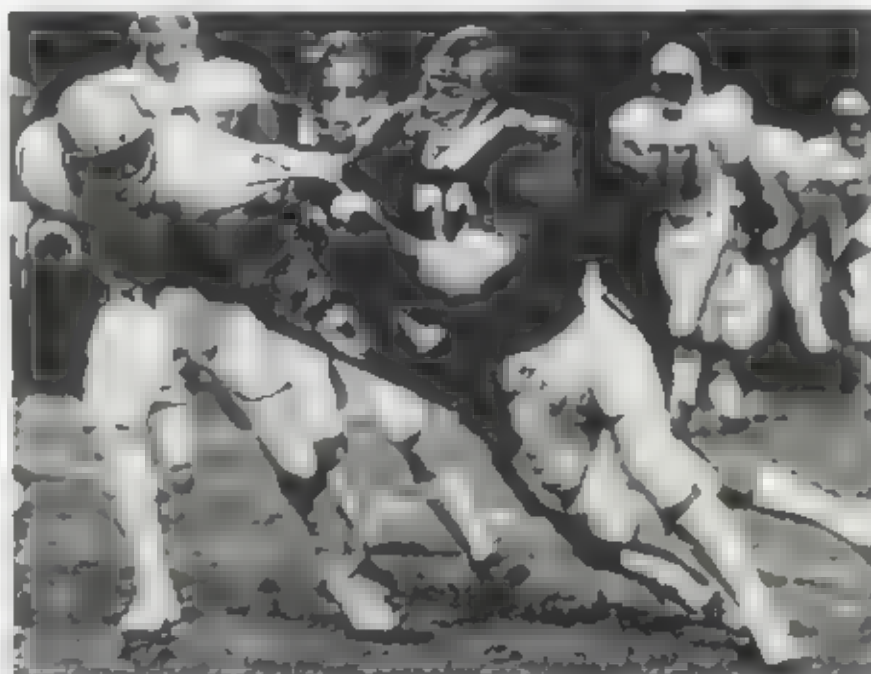

They're kicking up a real storm.

The grueling leg lifts and windsprints finally paid off when the team almost made the state playoffs.
This team made football exciting. They continually filled Gregson Stadium with howling spectators

And behold it came to pass.

It does not take beauty and brains to play girls' tennis, although our team is certainly qualified in these areas. The abundance of skill and coordination is most important. This year's team excelled in all areas.

In this racquet, backhanding scores.

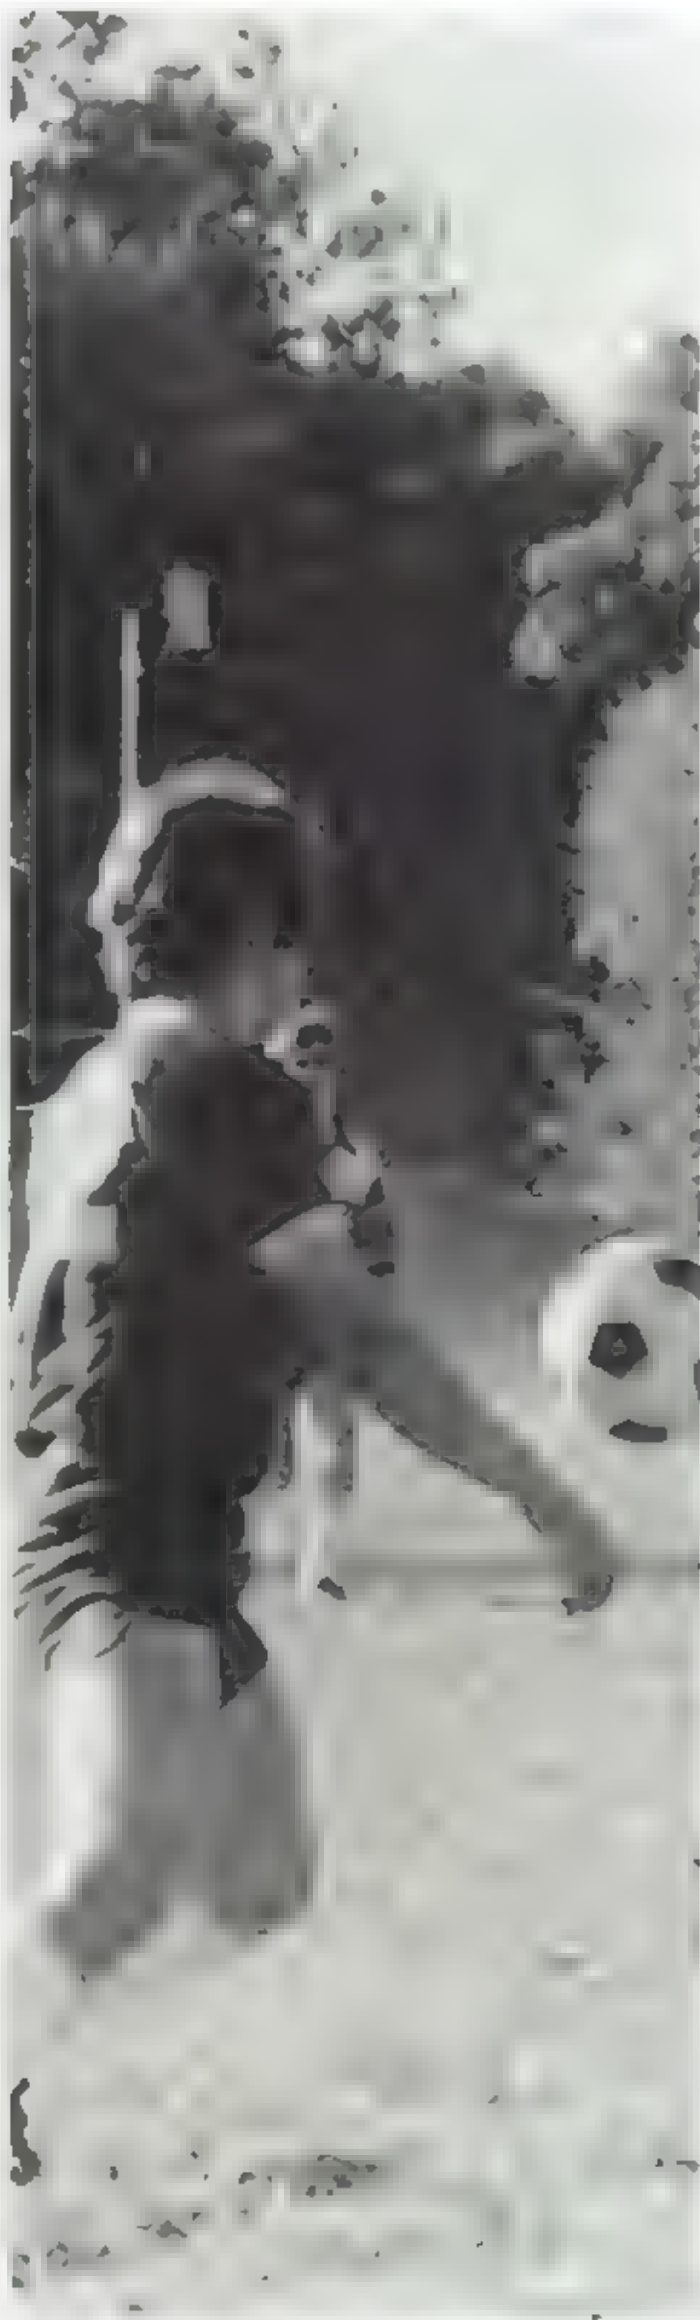

It is said that in this world,
only the strong survive,
and this year the soccer team proved its superior strength. This year's 19-2 record avenged last year's co-championship and took us to the top.

There are times when only the best will do.

For the followers of the SHS soccer team, the 1978-79 season was an exciting and successful experience. Even a constant drizzle during the championship was unable to dampen the spirit of the team or the crowd.

Soccer's just a kick in the grass.

With spectacular plays made by practically everyone around, the team only gave up two games in a thrilling year. Were all teams to perform so well, soccer would be the number one sport in the nation

If you can't use your hands, use your feet.

This year's volleyball team overshadowed most of the boys' teams. The girls knocked off all the best teams and when they finished and the smoke cleared, they had a 29-0 record and a STATE CHAMPIONSHIP!

Dig it! We're Number one!

The team was not made up of average beach volleyball players, but of players that could really dig it and spike with the power of dynamite. With great speed and agility this team could never be beaten.

This time the news is good.

The enthusiasm of basketball season came out in the use of Sports Committee signs. The crowds roared constantly and at the end of each game the cheerleaders were hoarse and ready to celebrate at Pizza Inn.

Now, on the OTHER hand —

SPARTANS

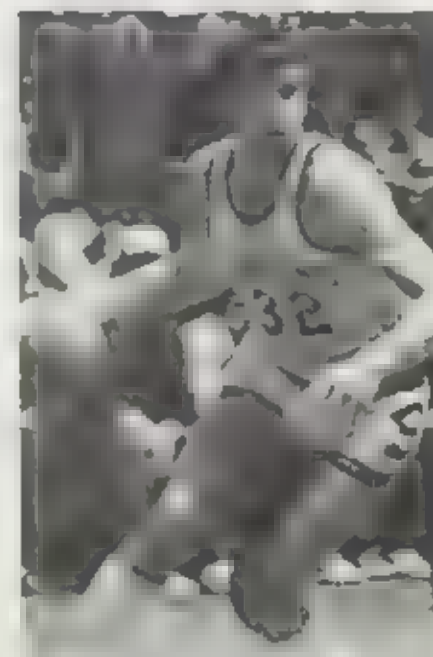

During the basketball season, Mr. Rankin and company added a new dimension to the basketball games by painting a Spartan on the gym wall which gave new life to the team and livened up the bland gym.

You can't go wrong when you're suited to a "T".

In the tradition of Spartan excellence, the girl's basketball team succeeded in reaching the State Quarter-Finals. An abundance of talent and team spirit escorted the Lady Cagers to a winning season

We've got all the class on the court.

This year's wrestling team combined efforts to produce a very successful 9 and 2 record. From the 13 starters, 4 placed in the sectionals, 5 were eligible for the regionals and 2 were eligible for the state.

Isn't it warm,
isn't it cozy,
side by side?

Watching the gymnastics team was watching grace at its best. The movements and scores were flawless. In all, the determination and dedication were forces which helped the team attain a perfect record

And now for a great new twist.

"arm stiff, wrist straight."
Golf is a sport in which nearly every move is against natural body motion. This year's golf team managed to overcome even these barriers and amount a 16-4 record

For us the grass is always green.

Track may be called a sport for masochists

Hours and hours of grueling practice are spent running laps and practicing form for the field events. All this effort is expressed in just a few short seconds.

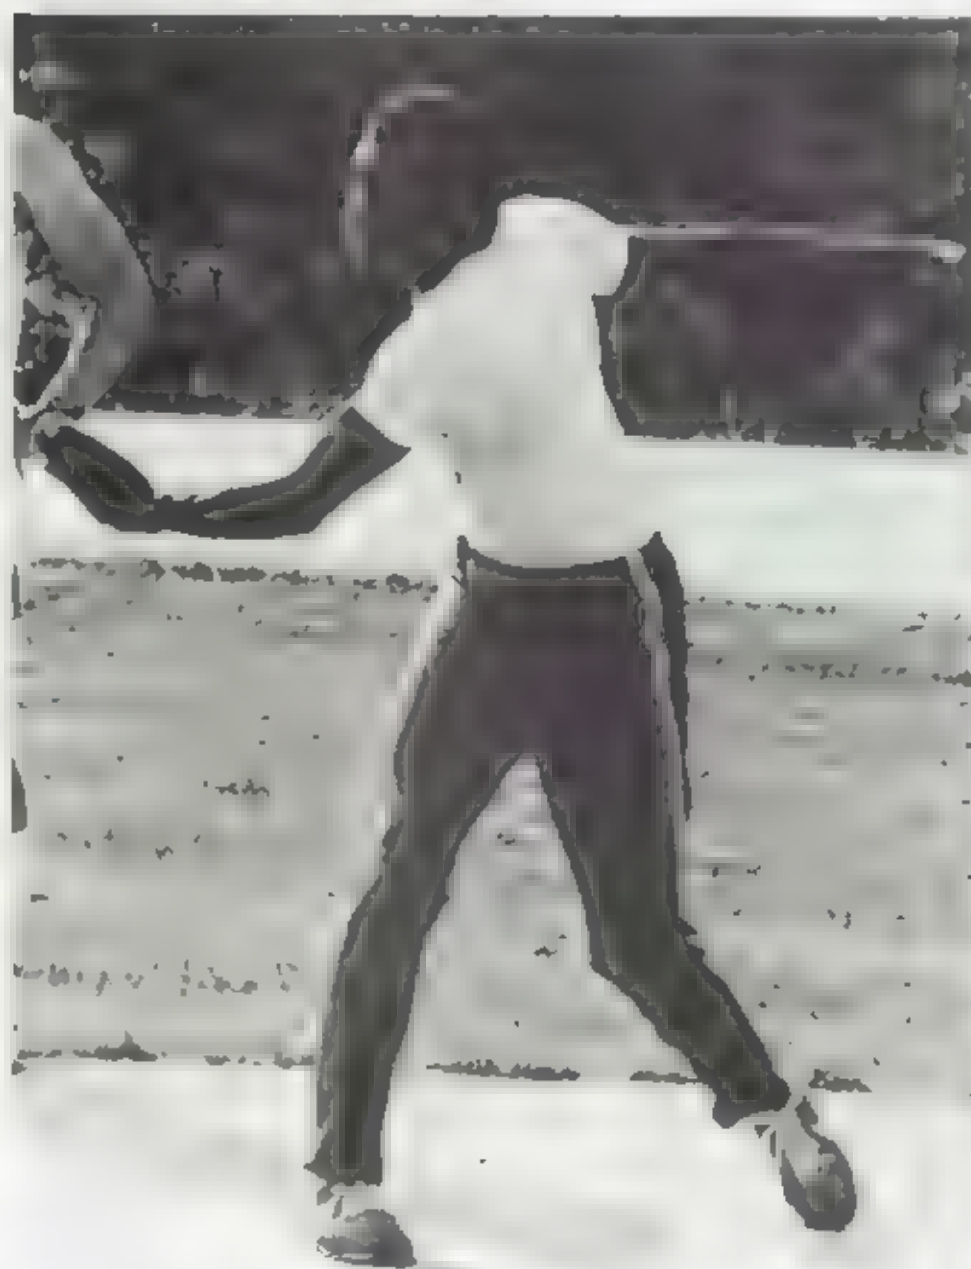

We seem to be getting nowhere fast.

Track is a sport which combines the excellence of individuals with the common goal of team victory. By exploiting the various talents to the utmost, the team reaches its greatest potential Leaping to greater heights.

Determination is the word which best describes the girls' track team. The Lady Spartans gave 100 percent, even when they were faced with staggering odds. Their perserverance was commendable Going farther to be the best.

The diamond wasn't the only jewel on the softball field this year. Sanderson fielded a sparkling girls' softball team. They played with unequaled skill and enthusiasm. Their playing was another Spartan gem.

They always swing at our curves.

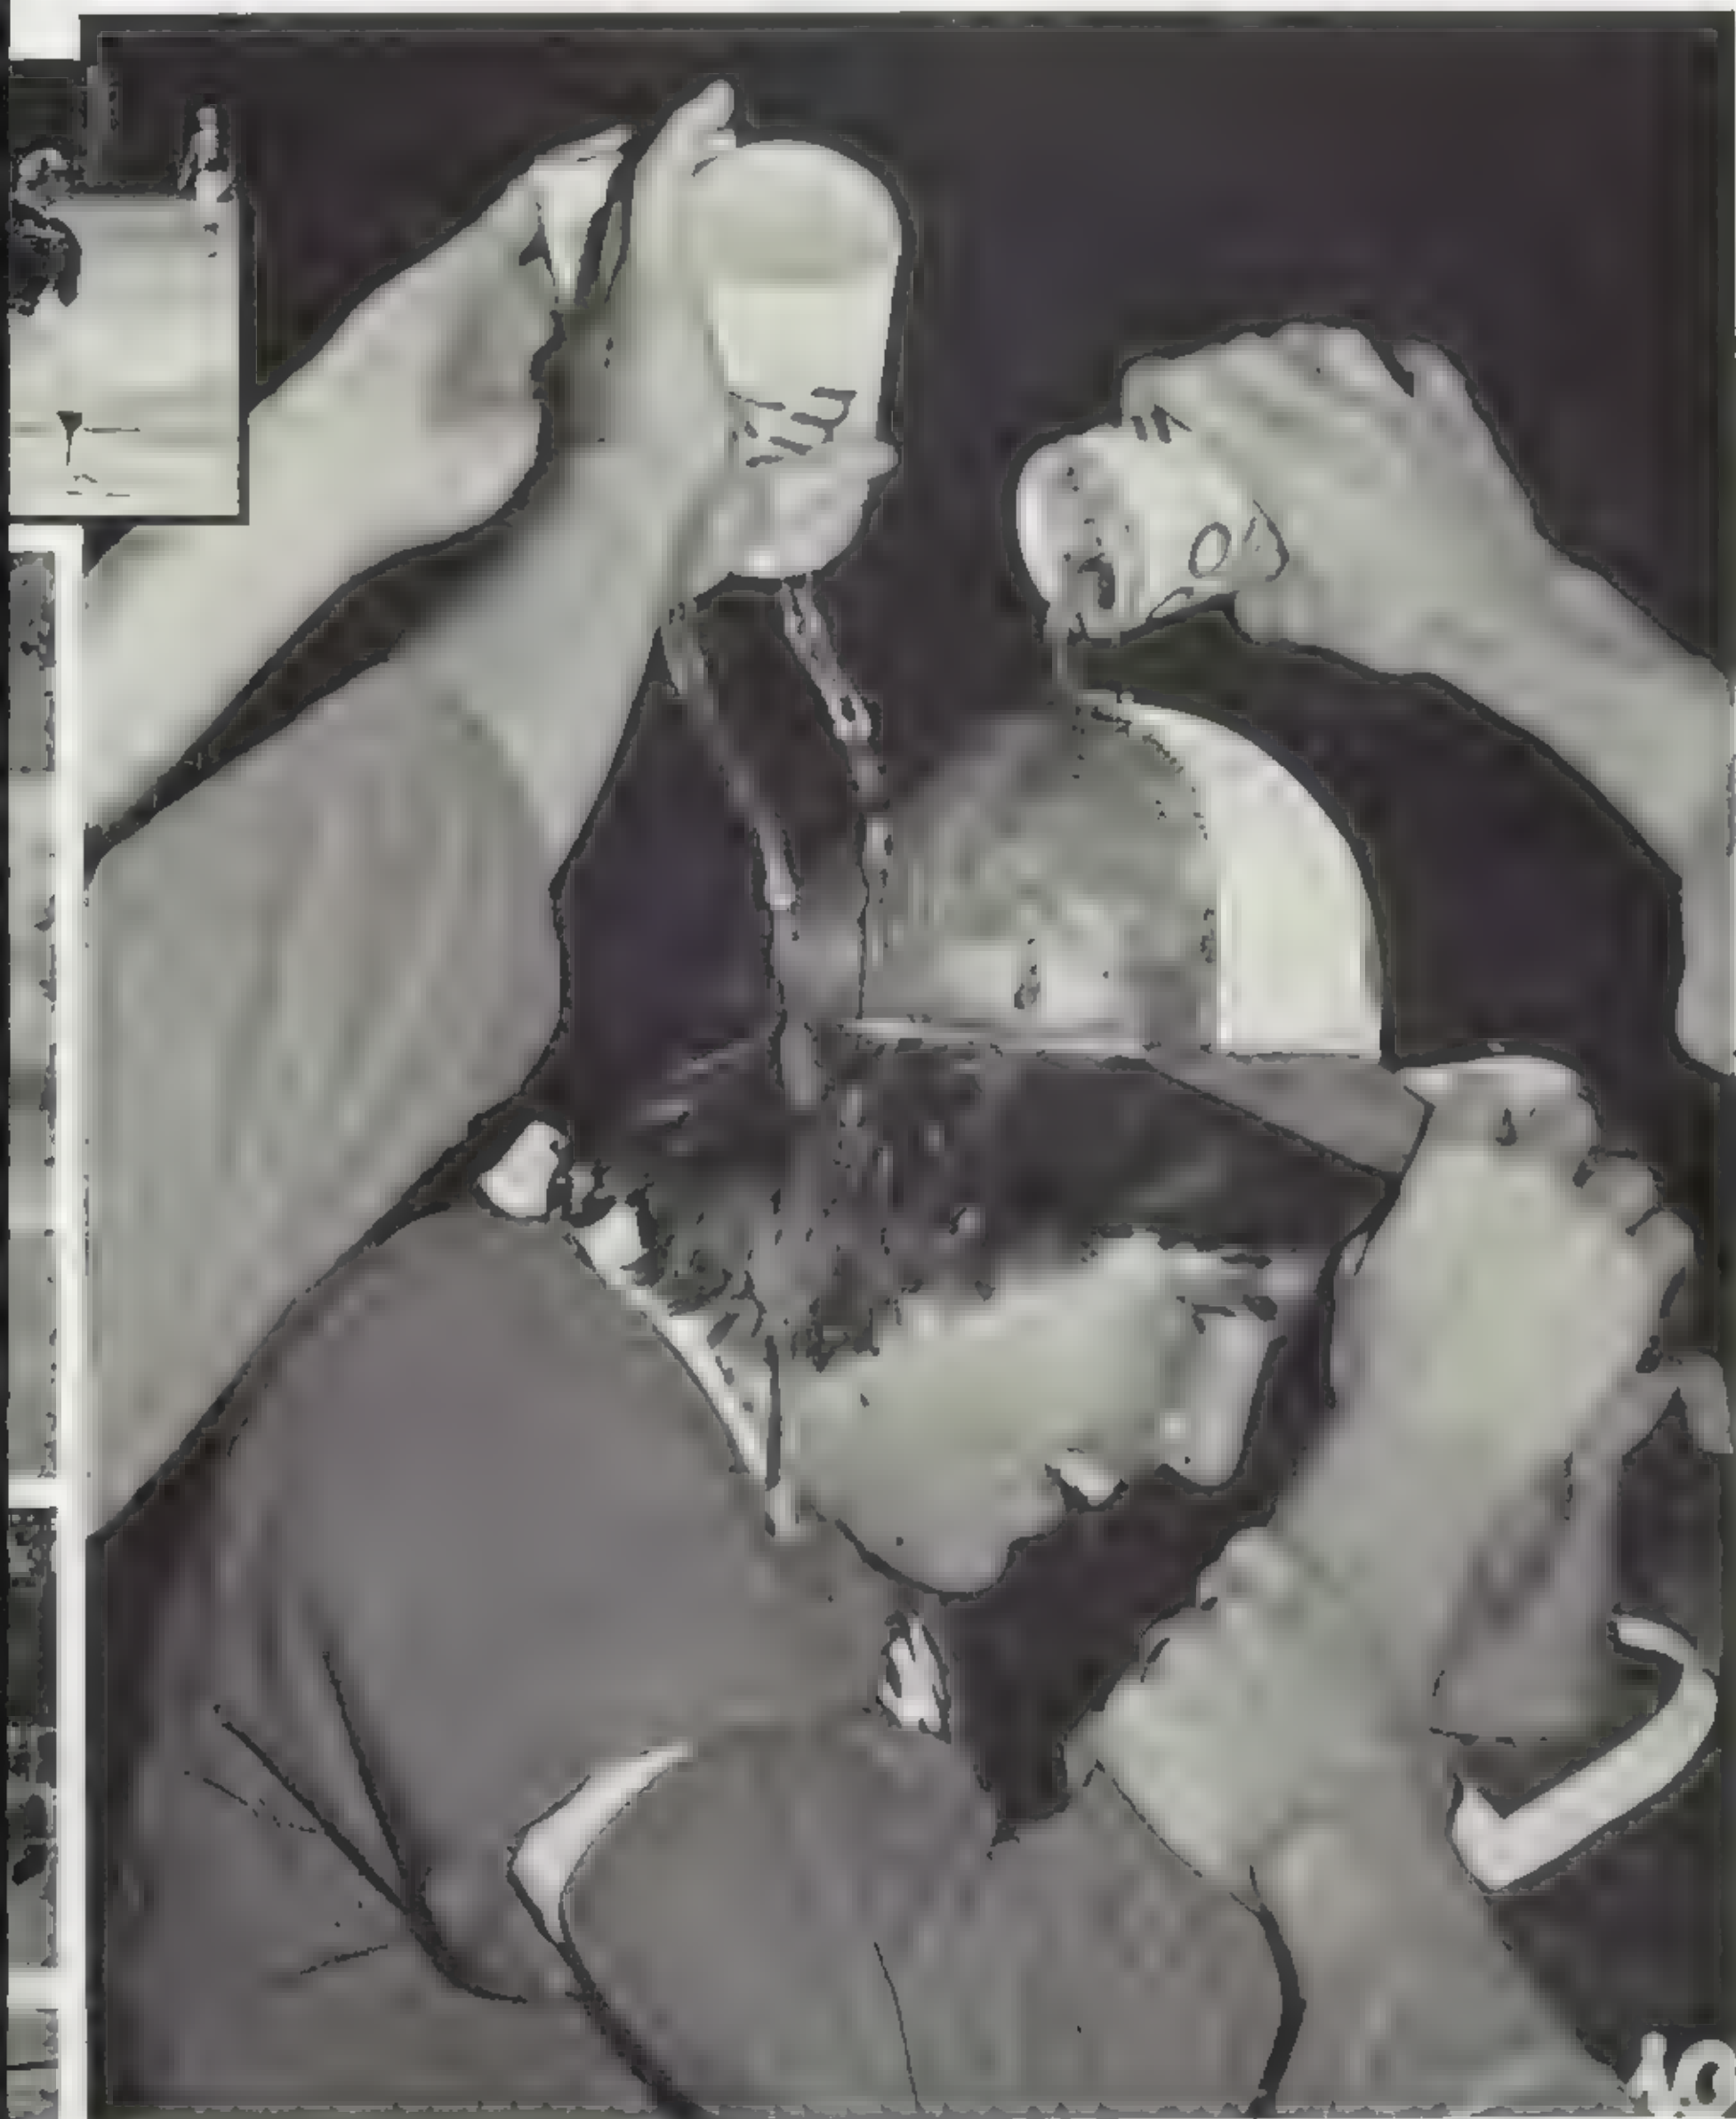

This year's baseball team came off a mediocre regular season and rocketed into the tournament, snatching a Cap-8 Conference Championship and placing two members on the All-Conference team.

It was almost another miracle.

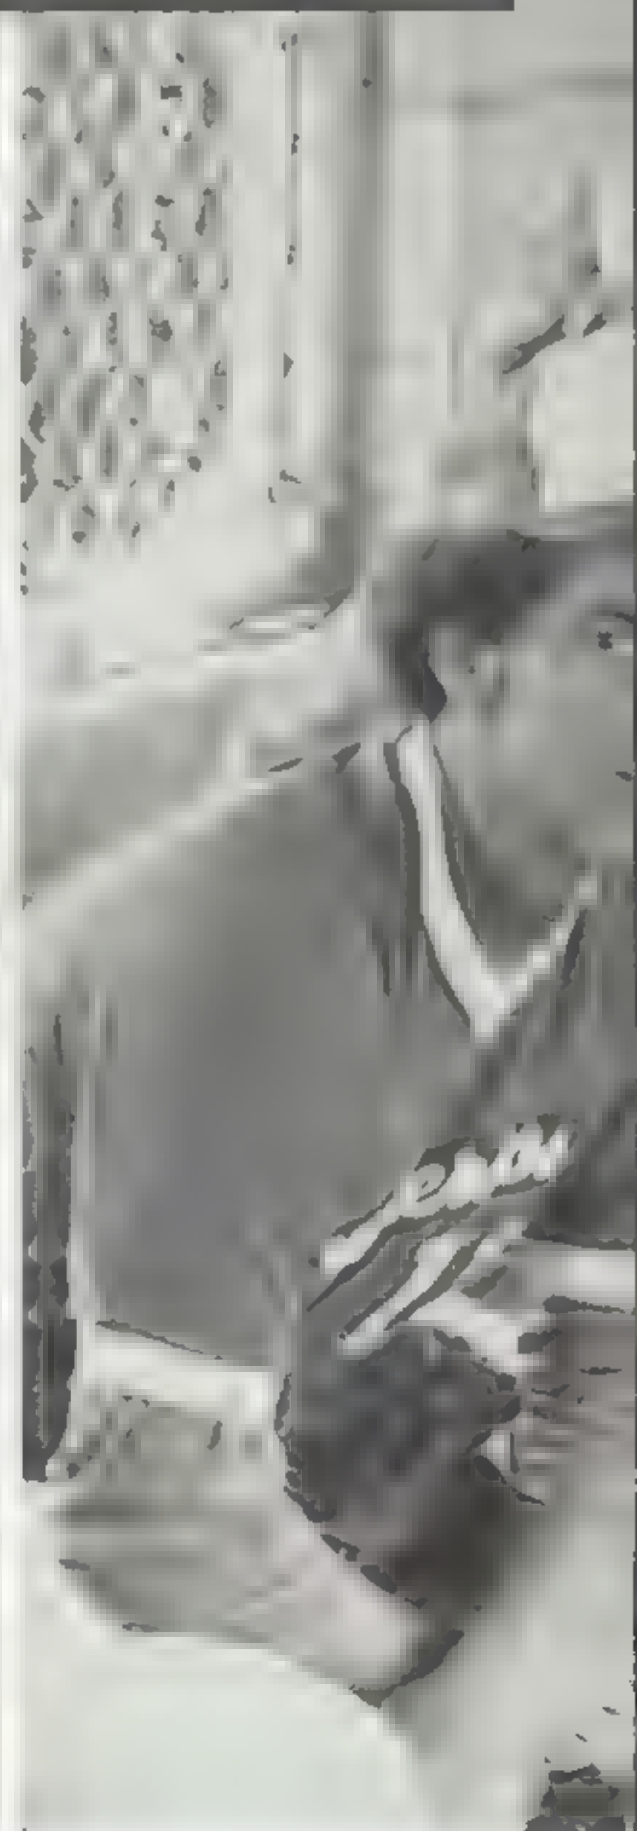

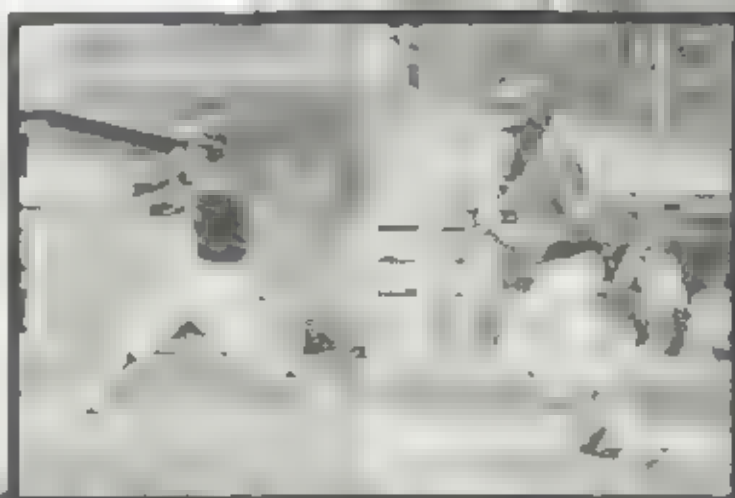

The '79 baseball squad was well-rounded and poised.

They displayed good sportsmanship and that dominating Spartan Spirit. They effectively combined these qualities to become one of the state's finest teams.

Step right up and take a whirl.

Clearing the avid enthusiasts from the school's courts in order for the team to practice was not a vain task.

Sanderson's tennis pros managed to compile a 13-2 record and reach the sectionals

A sport where love means nothing.

A Touch of

CLASS

As hard as it is to believe, academics played an important part in the daily lives of Sanderson students. Between athletic and social events, students found time to attend classes. Students fought the battles of advanced education, working towards the final victory of graduation. Though little time was spent in study, Sanderson kept the best of academic standards.

THE GENESIS OF MATH

In the beginning was the equation, and the equation was without form. And the Lord said, "Let there be the quadratic." And he saw that it was good. But, lo! the equation was still unsolvable. So the Lord said, "Let there be factoring, and where there not be factoring, let there be the quadratic formula." And the Lord saw that it was good. And there was fall and spring — Algebra I.

But the Lord saw that there were no forms upon the earth. So he said, "Let there be solids." And lo! the earth was filled with an abundance of forms of all types each of their own shape and size. And there were cones and cubes and spheres and pyramids. And the Lord said, "Let there be proofs." And the earth was filled with proofs and theorems and postulates. And the Lord saw that it was good. And there was fall and spring — Geometry.

And the Lord said, "Let there be graphs, each consisting of the axis of x and the axis of y ." And the Lord saw that it was good. But, lo! the graph was empty and void. And the Lord said, "Let there be the conic section." And so appeared the conic section of the types of circles, points, lines, ellipses, parabolas, and hyperbolas. And the Lord saw that it was good. And there was fall and spring — Algebra II.

And the Lord saw that there were angles. And the Lord said, "These angles must be measured. Let there be Trigonometry." And lo! the earth was filled with an abundance of angles and sines and cosines and tangents. And the Lord said, "These names are too long. Let there be abbreviations." And, lo! sin came into the world. But trigonometry was difficult. So the Lord said, "Let there be scientific calculators." And there came into the world calculators of many types, all containing many buttons, each calculator with its own configuration of symbols. And the Lord saw that it was good, for this made trigonometry of a simplified form. And there was fall and spring — Advanced Algebra/Trigonometry.

And the Lord saw that the conics were alone in the earth. And the Lord said, "Let there be graphs of functions." And, lo! the earth was filled with their abundance and they were of many and varied forms. And many were the curves rising and falling over the graphs of the earth. And the Lord saw that the functions were impossible to divide, so the Lord said, "Let there be synthetic division." And the Lord saw that it was good. And there was fall and spring — Fifth Level Math Survey.

And the Lord saw that the curves were sloped. And the Lord said, "Let there be the First Derivative." And the Lord saw that it was good. But, lo! the First Derivative also had slope. So the Lord said, "Let there be the Second Derivative." And the First and Second Derivatives were fruitful and produced many critical points and terrace points. And the Lord saw that it was good. And there was fall and spring — Calculus.

And in the seventh year the Lord rested. For, lo! his calculator battery was DEAD!

1978-1979 was one of those Wild & Crazy years which won't soon be forgotten. Some folks donned Togas as others relaxed after Running with a nice cold Perrier. Disco was very in, and in N.C., dry Bars were out! We rejoiced at the victory of favorite ACC teams and cried at the tragedy of Guyana And there was much more. Do you remember...

Excuse ME!

Slapstick humor returned in 78-79 with wild and crazy comics like Steve Martin, who led the way. Martin's far-out stage antics and his crude humor paved the way for King Tut, a song of his that climbed the ranks of American Top 40. The nation echoed approval of Martin's uncultured wit by resounding quotes like "Excuse me" and "I'm a Wild and Crazy Guy!" In a short period of time, Martin succeeded in changing America's sense of humor from a high level of sophistication to a lower class of unrefined wit.

Mid East Peace

Israel and Egypt signed a historic peace treaty in early spring of 1979, ending a state of war that lasted for almost thirty years. Prime Israeli Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian leader Anwar Sadat struggled past many conflicts and made many sacrifices despite pressure from all sides. The President of the United States, Jimmy Carter, was a key factor in the peace settlement by pushing the treaty which was signed on the White House lawn. If the treaty is successful, the end to Middle East trouble may be near.

Gimme an "S"

Nowadays when American men switch on the T.V. every Monday night, it's not always with football on their minds. With a start from the Dallas Cowgirls, cheerleaders have become less spirited and more sexy. Skirts have gone up, and necklines have gone down as can be seen when the T.V. cameras pan the side lines as they seem to do more often these days. It almost seems as if football teams are in a struggle to top each other with the best sideline action. Networks have capitalized on the public's interest by filming movies like The Dallas Cowgirls, and as seen by the high ratings, the public has responded as expected. What new gimmicks will the T.V. people try? It seems like they've already gone as far as possible before the world of football will have to be censored.

Can you say Ega-muf'n

This year juniors were put through still another test of the intellect with the North Carolina Competency tests. A new law passed in the state which required all students to pass the tests before they were permitted to graduate. Although some students failed their first try, the majority found the tests fairly easy and scored well. A controversy over the racial discrimination of the test arose and even now continues to be a disputable issue. The testing will most likely point out the faults in our teaching system and perhaps even improve the quality of education itself.

Snap, Crackle, and Pop!

Snap! Crackle! Pop!
And it ain't Rice Crispies, Sweetheart. The nation was swept by a novel candy that literally talked and jumped. A crackling roar resounded throughout the nation as the carbonated sweet filled the mouths of the fadists.

The short-lived fad was a joy to many, but served as an unbearable annoyance to others. Continuous reports of injury followed the candy, but fortunately no one blew up

Disco Fever

Disco mania swept across the nation this year as young and old alike hustled to the beat of the Top Ten disco songs. One of the main attractions about "discomania" is the elaborate and exotic interiors of many discotheques. Unfortunately, many minors cannot partake in the fantasy world of "disco" due to age, but those who can make it past the bouncer find themselves in a different world of spinning, flashing, and gyrating lights and bodies. The list of acceptable dances has grown from the original "Hustle" to the "Pretzel" and even the riské "Freak." Maybe discotheques are just a passing fad, but as far as fads go, it's a darn fun one!

ACC

The 1979 ACC Basketball season was better and more exciting than ever before. The conference had the best balance in a decade with each team finishing up it's season with a winning record. Duke and UNC tied for the regular season, but Carolina finally prevailed in the championship over a physically rag-tagged Duke. Both teams advanced to the Eastern Regionals with high hopes. Unfortunately, their balloons were popped by Northern unknown teams like Penn and Saint John's. On the national scene, previously undefeated Indiana State was brought down by the Cagers from Michigan State at the NCAA championship in Salt Lake City, Utah. There were victories for some and total defeat for others, but for everyone there was the excitement of basketball itself, and the hope that maybe next year

Love a Fair

Ranking among the top money guzzler's of the year is the North Carolina State Fair. In spite of the outrageous prices, thousands of N.C. residents (SHS students included) annually flock to their fair grounds the week of October 14-21. Perhaps the great attraction lies in hunks of machinery that turn you in, out, and upside down; they hold a certain fascination for the average Carolinian. Every year, hordes of SHS students patronized the Himalaya, the Super-Loop, and the Zipper and gorged on corn dogs, caramel apples, and the famous fried dough. Regardless of it's drawbacks, it can be said that windblown hair, burned cheeks, and empty pockets are only small disadvantages compared to the excitement and wonder of the North Carolina State Fair.

Muscle-Bound

The latest trend to hit the U.S. is one which is fun as well as highly beneficial; physical fitness is in! Suddenly, America jumped out of it's easy chair and began to crowd the roadsides and recreation areas doing everything from jogging to jump-roping. The list of sports to choose from offers even the most laid back athlete good exercise and health. Racquetball, squash, and tennis grew in popularity as new courts and clubs went up everywhere. Books on running were instantly sold out at bookstores, and the competition grew between shoe manufacturers to see who could build the best running shoe. Never before has a trend such as Physical Fitness been so widely accepted by so many. Let's just hope it's an idea which is here to stay and not just another fad

Popes Die

Over the past year, the world was stunned by the deaths of two Popes. The aged Pope Paul died in August, 1978, after leading the world's largest church through its most critical times since the reformation. His successor, Pope John Paul I, was chosen by the college of cardinals to lead the world's Catholics. To everyone's shock, he lived to serve only 33 days. He was a happy, optimistic man who instilled hope in millions of people. John Paul I's successor, John Paul II, began his rule a few weeks later. To the shock of the entire world, John Paul II was the first non-Italian Pope in 455 years, and whatsmore he was from Poland, a Communist country which disapproved of most types of religion. After only a short time of reigning, the world began to see the good in Pope John Paul II, who particularly supported the world's poor. He made several pilgrimages to show his dedication to the masses and is now loved all around the world.

Prime Time

Those who have complained about the poor quality of television shows in the past were temporarily silenced by the introduction of several new, quality shows this year. Soaring to the number one position was Mork and Mindy whose stars, Robin Williams and Pam Dawber, charmed all who watched their hilarious capers. Another top show was Lou Grant which dealt with often controversial subjects, and due to it's talented star, Ed Asner, rated high on the charts. Comedy lovers were given gifts of a Steve Martin Special, The Best of Saturday Night Live Part I, and new episodes of old standbys like Mash and Happy Days. The younger generation glued their eyes to the set as Wonder Woman and the Incredible Hulk continually fought the neverending forces of evil. As for the soaps, General Hospital probably took the "cake" with its prolonged Lasa Fever epidemic. 1978-1979 had both bombs and gems but with something for everyone.

Fashion 78-79

Fashions come and fashions go, and 1978-1979 was no different as far as new trends are concerned. This was the year of the designer jean and the look of long legs with spiked heels. Olivia Newton John wowed the public in Grease with her "totally hot" look that eventually filtered down to the masses. Candies were definitely in and to everyone's surprise were actually worn with jeans. "The Look" went from layers of blousy, flowing clothes to the more trimmed down skinny skirt and high, high heels. To the pleasure of many males, the slit came back with the idea that the more leg that showed, the more in you were. On the high school and college campuses, the look of prep was going strong. Much to the surprise and dismay of everyone, pink and green became an acceptable combination, especially when paired with a loaded gold add-a-bead necklace. Even men began to dress up in public with the revival of the khaki pants and Izod shirt. The year's fashions had their ups and downs, and many classics as well as fads were created. In twenty years from now will you remember what a Dean's sweater is?

Guyana: A Nightmare Come True

One morning in 1978 we awakened to gaze at newspaper headlines that looked as if some printer had made a terrible mistake. In some far off place that no one had ever heard of, over 200 people had committed suicide for a reason that no one knew. It all seemed like some story from a horror movie that no one could believe. As the days passed, details began to come from the small country called Guyana and to our horror we discovered that, in reality, over 900 men, women, and children had died. A man named Jim Jones had set himself up as the leader of the cult called "The People's Temple." On an afternoon, seemingly no different from any other, he called his followers together and passed out a Kool-Aid drink mixed with poison. All who drank of it were dead within a few minutes and only a very few escaped to tell their story. The reasons behind Guyana were many and the effects of it are still being felt. What happened that afternoon was a nightmare that we hope and pray will never be repeated, ever.

Roman Fun Revived

TOGA TOGA TOGA . . . since the release of National Lampoon's Animal House, the latest craze on all the college campuses has been the infamous Toga Party. No one does it quite like the frats at Delta House, but all over the country, there are constant attempts to be a close second. With sheets wrapped around their bodies and lettuce crowning their heads, the Romans gone Greek dance, party, and break guitars until all hours. Sure, Toga Parties have gotten a reputation of being on the wild side, but all in all, they're harmless fun which Julius "Blutto" Caesar would have been proud of.

Sand, Sun and Surf

North Carolinians are famous for their love of the coastline which trims the state. Every spare weekend and throughout the summer months, thousands of students flock to the coast for various justified reasons. Some wish only to bask in the North Carolina sun while others, carrying coolers full of "goods," prefer relief of a different nature. As far as beaches go, North Carolina has all types to offer. There are secluded beaches such as Ocean Isle and Sunset Beach, which continue to retain their unspoiled beauty, and there are "notorious" beaches such as Atlantic Beach and Wilmington Beach, who's night life can't be equaled. As always, North Carolina has something to offer the most fickle of sun worshippers.

The Art of Perriering

What's all this fuss over water these days? All it is and ever will be is two parts hydrogen to one part oxygen, right? Wrong. Perrier water is water bottled naturally carbonated by Nature's own deep processes in a spring somewhere in France. Since nature is back in, Perrier is really in. Everything about this sparkling mineral water denotes class: it's European origin, its debatably pronounced name (Is it Perri-air or Perri-ay?!), and lastly, its exuberant price. Still, America is willing to sacrifice all in order to buy Perrier. A year ago, it could only be found on the shelves of health food or mixed with fine white wine in the poshest of restaurants, but today it has popped up on every grocery store shelf, and is selling like hotcakes. The uses of Perrier are many; some like it with wine, others like it over ice with a wedge of lime, and still others prefer to drink it straight from the bottle as a non-alcoholic, non-caloric, sugar-free yet carbonated soft drink substitute. American made mineral waters could never match up to France's Perrier water because, baby, it's got class!

Year of the Snows

For those seniors who will not remember 1979 as the year of their graduation, they will surely remember it as the year of the snows. After years of below average amounts of the powdery precipitation, central North Carolina was dealt one winter storm after another. A near record snowfall accompanied by blizzard-like conditions closed schools for 6 days at one time. Students rejoiced at the first sight of the snow's accumulation; they took up steering their sleds instead of their snowbound cars and threw snowballs to take the place of their daily baseball practice. But soon the initial thrill was cast out and depression set in as most students realized that their spring vacation and early June days were all "melted," just like the snow.

"Movie, Movie"

America returned to the cinema during the past year in record numbers to bring millions of dollars to the makers of the box-office smashes. Christopher Reeves and his movie Superman lept to the top of the movie charts in a single bound as John Travolta and Olivia Newton John spread the "word" about Grease. Clint Eastwood and his orangutang went Every Which Way But Loose while John Belushi enrolled in an Animal House. While the producers of the flicks rolled in dough, the movie-goers rolled it out, often paying as much as $3.50 a seat. One movie star, while cashing his paycheck, was heard saying, "Thank God It's Friday."

Kick Off!

Superbowl XIII, played in the Orange Bowl stadium in Miami, Florida, pitted two of the greatest quarterbacks of all time, Terry Bradshaw and Roger Staubach, against each other. Bradshaw, quarterback of the AFC champions Pittsburgh Steelers, completed his best season ever, breaking record after record as he led his team to victory (35-30) over the Cowboys in the Superbowl. Roger Staubach guided the Cowboys to the NFC championship with stunning wins, but was incapable of pulling off a miracle against the favored Steelers. The close margin, however, indicates that competition in the immediate future should prove just as exciting as this past year.

"One Lime Daiquiri, Please"

A bill to allow county-wide referendums on liquor-by-the-drink passed the North Carolina Legislature in fall of 1978, clearing the way for heavy campaigning on each side of the issue. Opponents to the passage of the bill, including many church and civic organizations, quoted from the Bible and threatened "an end to family life" and "a bar on every street corner." An appeal to vote yes on January 12 was overwhelmingly appealed, and the bill passed in Wake, Durham, Orange, and many other metropolitan counties with ease. Since Liquor-by-the-drink has been passed, games like "stump the bartender" have cropped up: Do you know how to make a _____?

POWER CRAZY

The energy crisis became more of a reality than ever in the past year. The cut-off of Iranian oil during the Mid East revolution opened the eyes of Americans to see that the warnings of Energy Department officials were to be taken seriously. Pumps closed on weekends while prices rose continuously during the week. Americans tried to make the best of this situation by carpooling, combining gas-ses, buying a smaller car, or just plain walking, but the situation remained critical. Gas rationing, which seemed reminiscent of war time, became a strong possibility. Perhaps a crisis can not be avoided, and hopefully, it will teach America a lesson long over due.

SKI!

The excitement and exhilaration of flying down a mountainside cannot be equaled by any sport but skiing. This winter, amateur and pro alike flocked to the slopes from all over the state, often sacrificing a whole week's savings to pay for the high price of rentals. On the slopes, there was the usual mixture of people; there were the experienced skiers in their color-coordinated jumpsuits and goggles, and there were the novices in soggy blue jeans and borrowed ski gloves. Although some skiers strove to conquer the "Tom Terrific" of the slopes while others stuck to the "Easy Streets," skiing continued to be an enjoyable pastime for everyone.

Space Cadets

From some distant planet in a far-away galaxy came several new space shows this past year. Although Star Wars was old hat to most people, it continued to flourish with everything from beach towels to wastebaskets depicting the adventures of Luke Skywalker and R2D2. The earth sat in anticipation of the next Star Wars II, while others were content to enjoy the first one again and again and again and again. Touched off by the new space enthusiasm was television's Battlestar Galactica. The characters in this show had not only left the Earth but had lost it all together. Their search was for a legendary planet of their ancestors . . . Well, everyone heard a similar line on Star Trek which, incidentally, was revived in '79. The past year was only a taste of the cosmic craze that's yet to come, so be prepared for more Cylon's, and may the Force be with you!

A Lifetime Still Ahead

In 1966 we began school not knowing what lay ahead. Since then, we have seen the world about us change tremendously. Raleigh, like the rest of the world, has grown. Shopping centers have sprouted in every corner and the city keeps expanding it's limits to include new subdivisions. We've seen the fashions go from mini-mini to maxi-maxi back to knee-length. Together we watched in amazement as the first men landed and walked on the moon. We watched the news about a war in some far-away place called Vietnam and wondered what it was all about. The fashion of the day was to wear bracelets with POW's or MIA's names on them. In the seventies we began to hear of something called Watergate. It seemed to be all the news and papers talked about. Just as we began to understand what was going on, our Vice-President resigned and then our President. When we asked our parents what it was all about, they just said, "It's too hard to explain. You'll understand when you're older." In 1976 we celebrated the 200th birthday of our country. Everyone went Bicentennial crazy, buying anything and everything red, white, and blue. But as 1977 began, the Bicentennial seemed all but forgotten. During our school years, we have seen the fashion go from the sloppy "hippie" look to the neater more conservative "preppie" look. It used to be that computers took up whole rooms, but now we have mini-computers called calculators that can be held in your hand and some can even be put in a small pocket. It we had believed the government agencies, we would all be sure that we had cancer from the many "cancer-causing" products on the market; They tried to convince us that hair-dye, food-dye, saccharin, and even hairdryers were carcinogens. Since 1966 our world has changed and grown, but so have we. We entered first grade terrified of what lay ahead and now we are ready to go to college or to work and we're scared again, but this time we have more confidence in ourselves. WORLD, watchout! 'cause here comes the CLASS of 1979!

IN CASE OF A CHANGE IN ADDRESS, CONTACT LISA FOREHAND (782-3084)

In every aspect of student life at Sanderson, loyal Spartans were behind the scenes building, practicing, selling, or cooking, striving to make theirs the biggest event of the year. Whether it was in an endeavor to broaden one's horizons such as the performances of the Sandpipers, chorus, orchestra, and band or the Language Food Tasting Banquet, there was always a large number of enthusiastic backers. The various dances held at SHS never knew a lack of interest. The long hard hours put into Winter Festival and Prom decorations paid off with a great deal of "spirited" students showing up to dance the night away. The thrill of having a winning team also carried over into the post-game dances at Homecoming and Harvest Moon. Class competition arose once again in a combat over the ownership rights of "Junior-Senior Weekend." Was it Junior Weekend or Senior Weekend? The battle was fought with T-shirts and posters but nothing was resolved, and the two classes willingly intermingled at Atlantic Beach. Seniors, though, did win the right to their own day — graduation. The parties, assemblies, picnics, discos, and the commencement itself gave tribute to the great class of '79 in very special ways. Graduation was a glorious time of isolation from underclassmen, the school, and those horrible final exams. Although at times Sanderson's classes were pitted against each other, usually for the benefit of a good money-making project or other worthy cause, the school generally functioned as a unified body with lots of good old fashioned Spartan SPIRIT!

Homecoming is a traditional time of activity around Sanderson. The alumni returned, floats are constructed, and the powderpuff teams hurt. The German Club once again achieved victory in the float competition. The powderpuff game was highlighted by the seductive cheerleaders and thrilling passes. The Seniors succeeded in overcoming their opponents. The week closed with a successful game and dance.

Class competition is always a major part of student life at Sanderson and at certain times such as Homecoming, it's at its peak. To begin the week the Seniors beat out the underclassmen in a swift game of powderpuff football. Rivalry again made an appearance in class float competition, yet the big event of the week, the Homecoming Dance itself, was enjoyed by all.

This year, Sanderson students were allowed and were encouraged to unleash their suppressed desires to eat candy in class, dress strangely, and paint their bodies green. Spirit week was to boost students' morale and school spirit and did so with the help of Friday's pre-game pep rally. Unfortunately, SHS was defeated that evening by their impish opponents, but the spirit of the week lived on.

Sanderson's athletic teams are traditionally superior. This year our soccer and volleyball teams came out number one and the baseball team got to the finals. The soccer team played an exciting championship game against Mecklenburg. Volleyball also had another exciting victory as the girls reached their ultimate goal of making SHS Number One once again.

In the course of every school year, there is a dance which switches the roles between guys and gals. This year there was the traditional Winter Festival dance, but a new turnabout, the Harvest Moon, was added by the Sophomore Class. It always was an experience for the girls to have to solicit a date, but their nervousness didn't stop them. Both dances were huge successes and provided enjoyable times for all

With a winning array of talented musicians, seamstresses and artists, Sanderson couldn't help spreading it's culture and refinement throughout the student body. The school year saw several concerts by the band and orchestra and various performances by the choral department. Even a high school such as Sanderson can play cupid to its enamored students. Members of the choral department roamed the school during first and second periods complete with cupids to deliver Valentine-O-Grams and red-lipped girls to pass out the kisses. Valentine's Day was topped off with a dance in the gym and a chance for everyone to be with the ones they love.

Clubs and committees at Sanderson are usually involved in beneficial projects as is evident by our annual Bloodmobile visit. This year, Sanderson students pooled their blood to make up 167 pints for the American Red Cross. For the third year in a row, SHS was the recipient of the Big Drop Award. Congratulations Sanderson, and thanks for caring.

Despite an early start on planning, more than a month of Sunday's spent on decorations-making came down to a few final days in which the Junior Class Council put together the 1979 Senior Prom. Influenced by the scenery and the music, no one stopped dancing until the band quit at midnight. Especially appreciated was the multi-colored rainbow symbolizing this year's theme of "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Wiz."

On a sunny Friday in mid-May, students from SHS flocked by car to the crowded Atlantic Beaches With the Landmark and Yancey as the headquarters for the weekend, students found ways to amuse themselves on the beach during the day and with their newly acquired sunburns, partied and enjoyed themselves into the very early hours of the morning

In our blues, we marched joyfully to the music of the Baccalaureate ceremony and even the toughest were overwhelmed. Although graduation is often a time of sentiment and sadness, there are some aspects of this time which are only enjoyable. The senior picnic is a time to be with your classmates yet be away from the tribulations of final exams. It is also a time to relax after the harrowing Sr. assembly which honored the outstanding seniors at SHS. As we gobbled down the mass-produced burgers and dogs, we reflected for one last time.

Oh Bobby

Shut up, Ms

Ms. ...

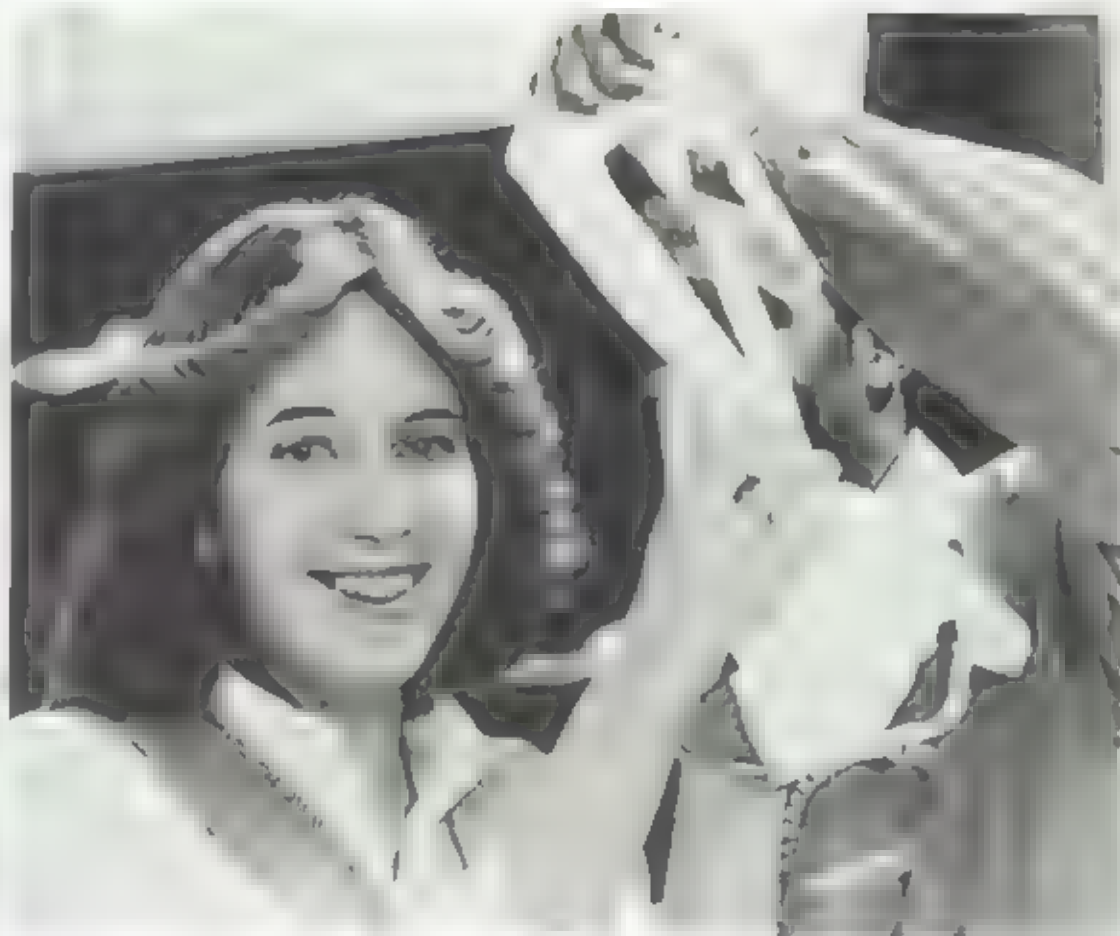

Like a white rabbit!

Get off my turf, whump!

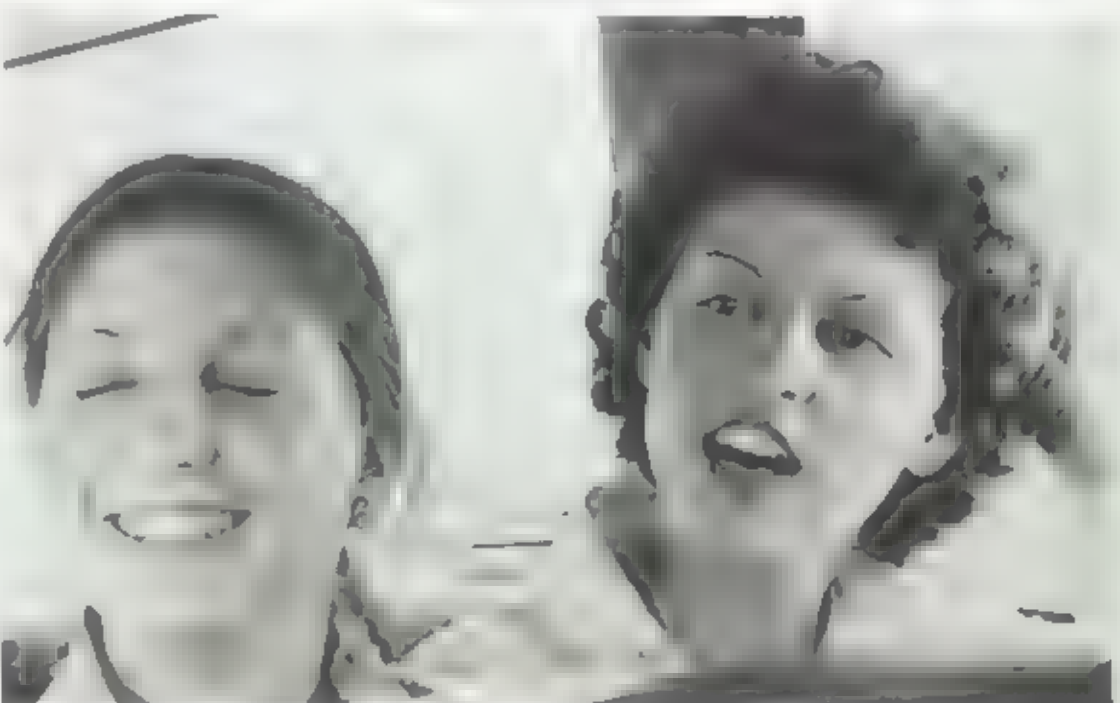

Liz: Let's play steamroller
 Tracy: That's okay, he loves me.
 Skip: I'm a suave Jamican.
 Beverly: I want to know where your hands are.
 Anna: Tell me a mutant deer story.
 Marty: Nobody told me there was a deadline.
 David: I'm not Scott
 Mr. Allegood: Don't ask me, I'm Bobby.
 Steve: I don't roam the halls.
 Scott: You can go ahead and start laughing Bobby: I'll say fart if I want to.
 Kathy: Ya'll, ya'll, are we gonna do this all night?
 Rob: I only got an hour and a half of sleep last night.
 Marcie: Go for it.
 Beth: You can't do "jack crap" with that.
 Billy: We passed Warsaw and we're starving.
 Ginny: I'm boogying at 55 m.p.h.
 Carole: Come on!!
 Maureen: I can't believe you got all the hunks to sign it.
 Pam: Just leave me alone

Get up, Skip!

Beauty and the Beast

Ya'll what do I do next?

Well, we're Mr. T. T. T.

...and we're new here.

Tell us how you work it.

Now, it's the second course.

With this, the last page of the 1979 LAKONIKOS, the great class of '79 can look back at its last year at Jesse O. Sanderson High School. This book has been put forth to bring into perspective the culmination of at least twelve years of formal education, the triumphs and failures, frustrations, and elations, the happy and sad times. So, Senior class of 1979, this book is dedicated to you, but whether you remember the merit or the vice of your high school years, always remember Jesse O. Sanderson.
